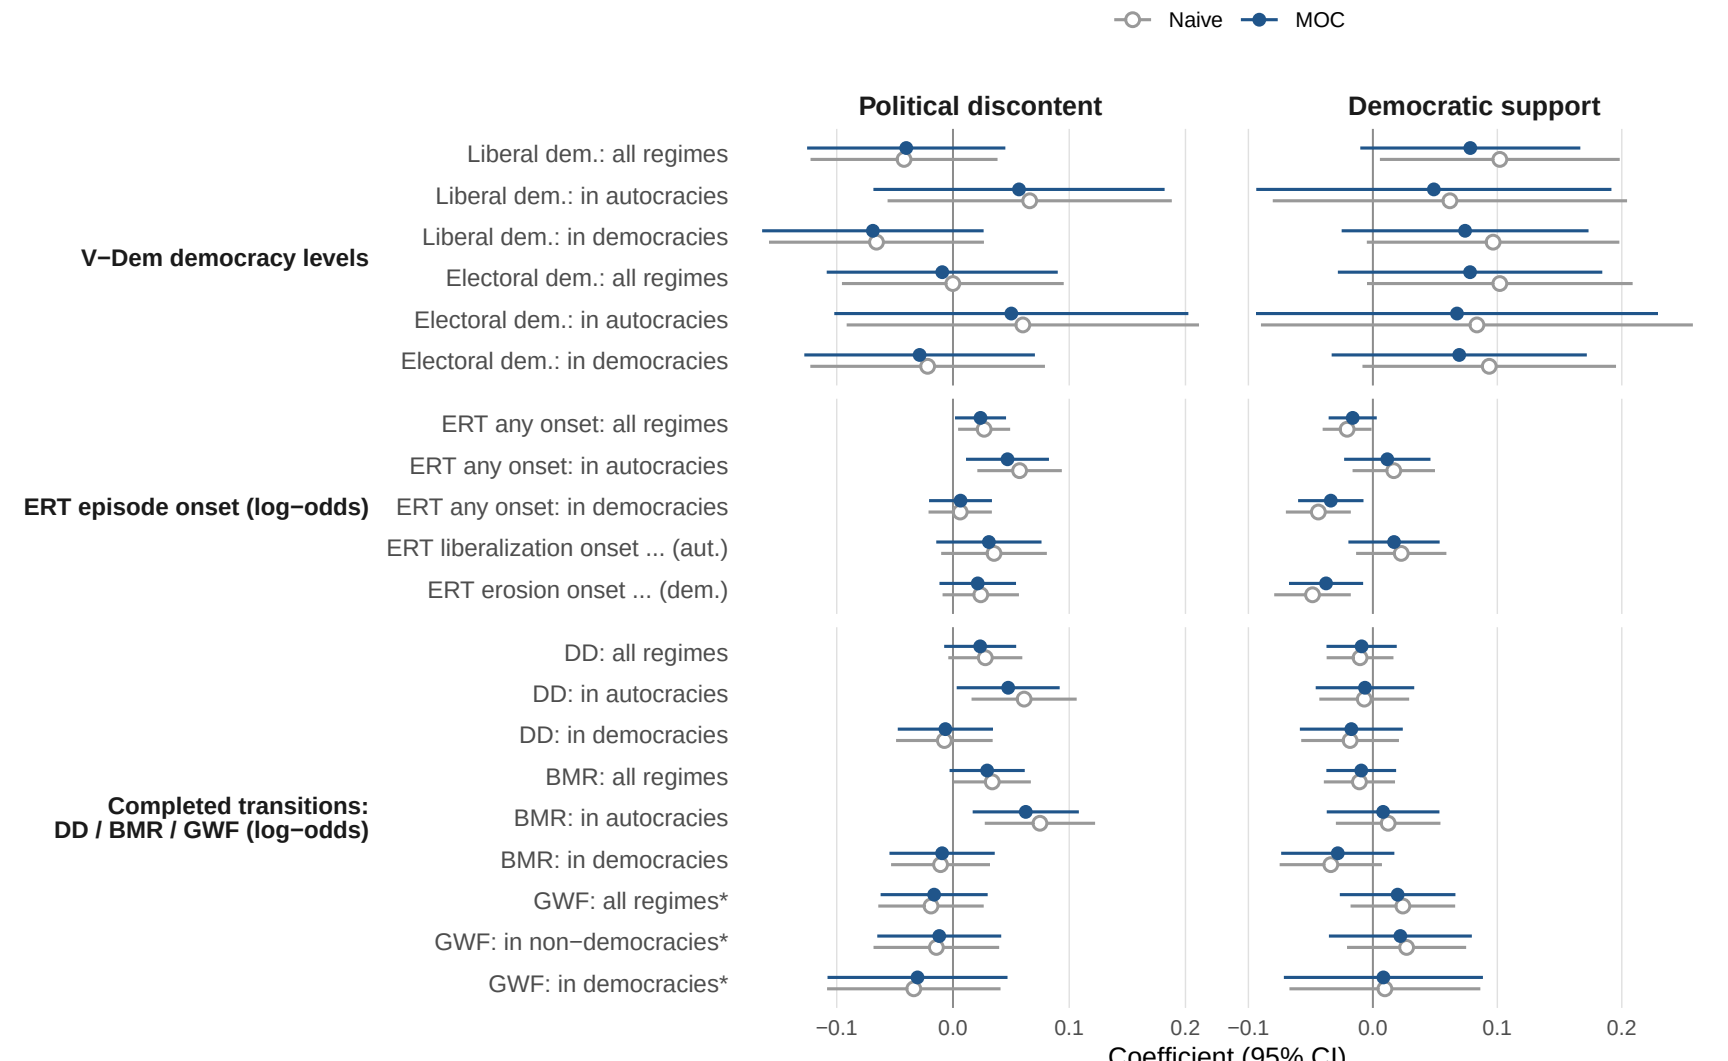
Public opinion and regime (in)stability: the full battery

Naive (posterior−mean data) vs. method of composition (900 draws); 95% CIs



Full control specification throughout; 'in autocracies/democracies' rows split the opinion slopes by regime type (zero−filled regressors).
For regime−transition rows the in−autocracies slope is the democratization side, the in−democracies slope the breakdown side.
Democracy−level rows: pooled OLS, coefficients x1000. Hazard rows: Firth penalized logit. * GWF ends in 2010 (5−16 events): exploratory.